

Tax Credits and Low-Income Californians

October 3, 2022

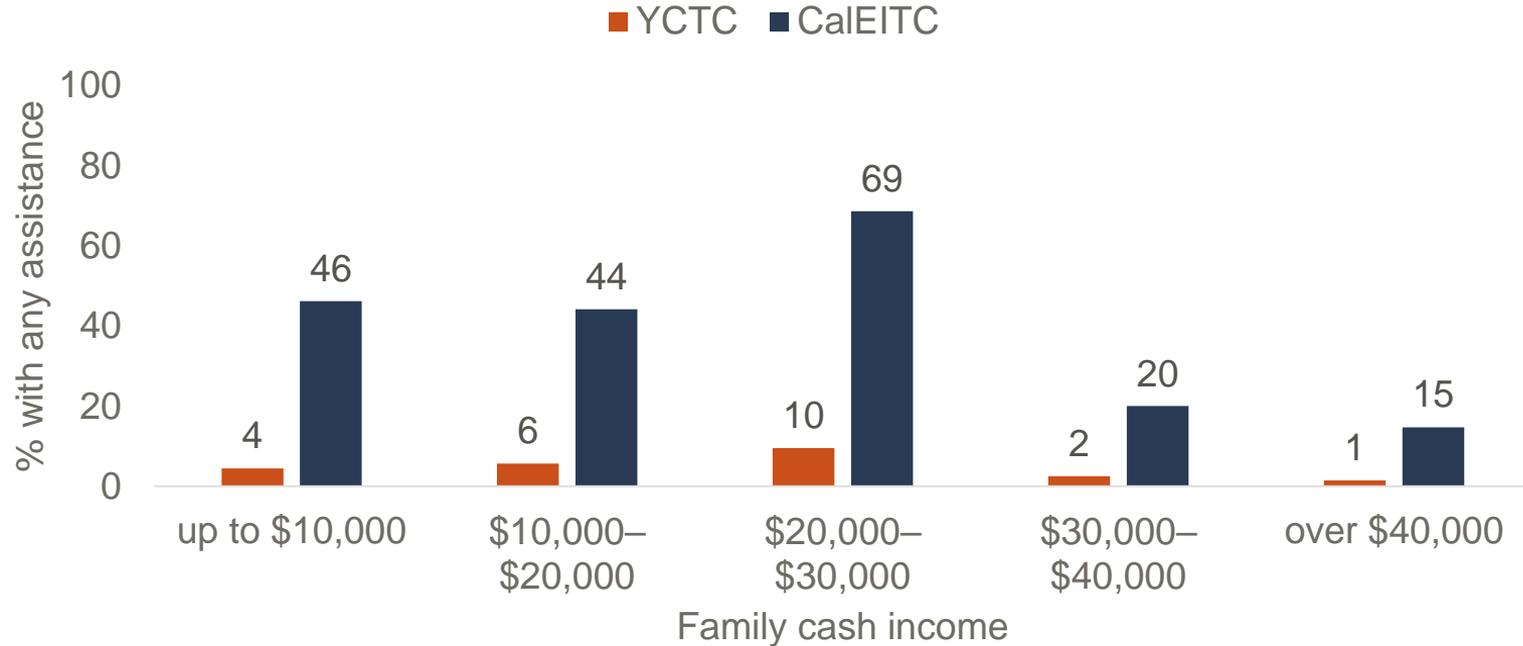

Caroline Danielson

PPIC

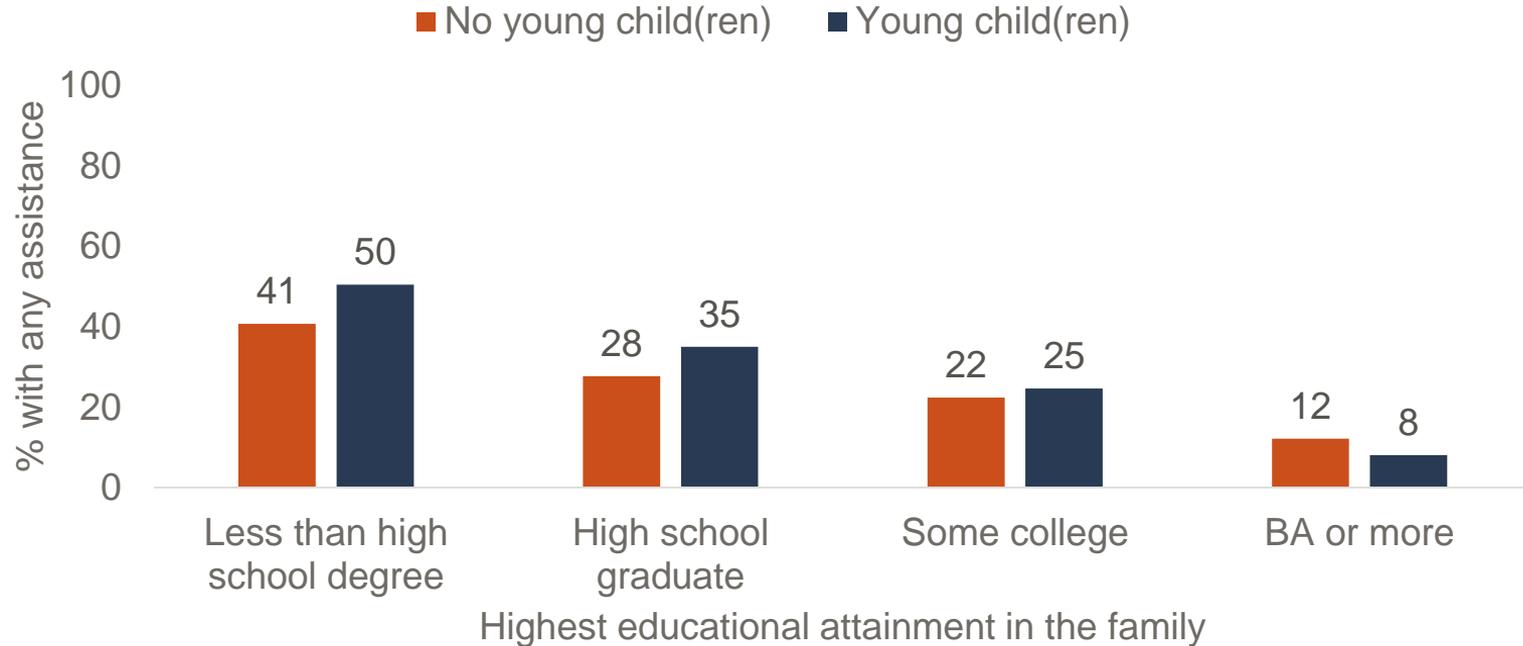

PUBLIC POLICY
INSTITUTE OF CALIFORNIA

California tax credits assist large shares of low-income families

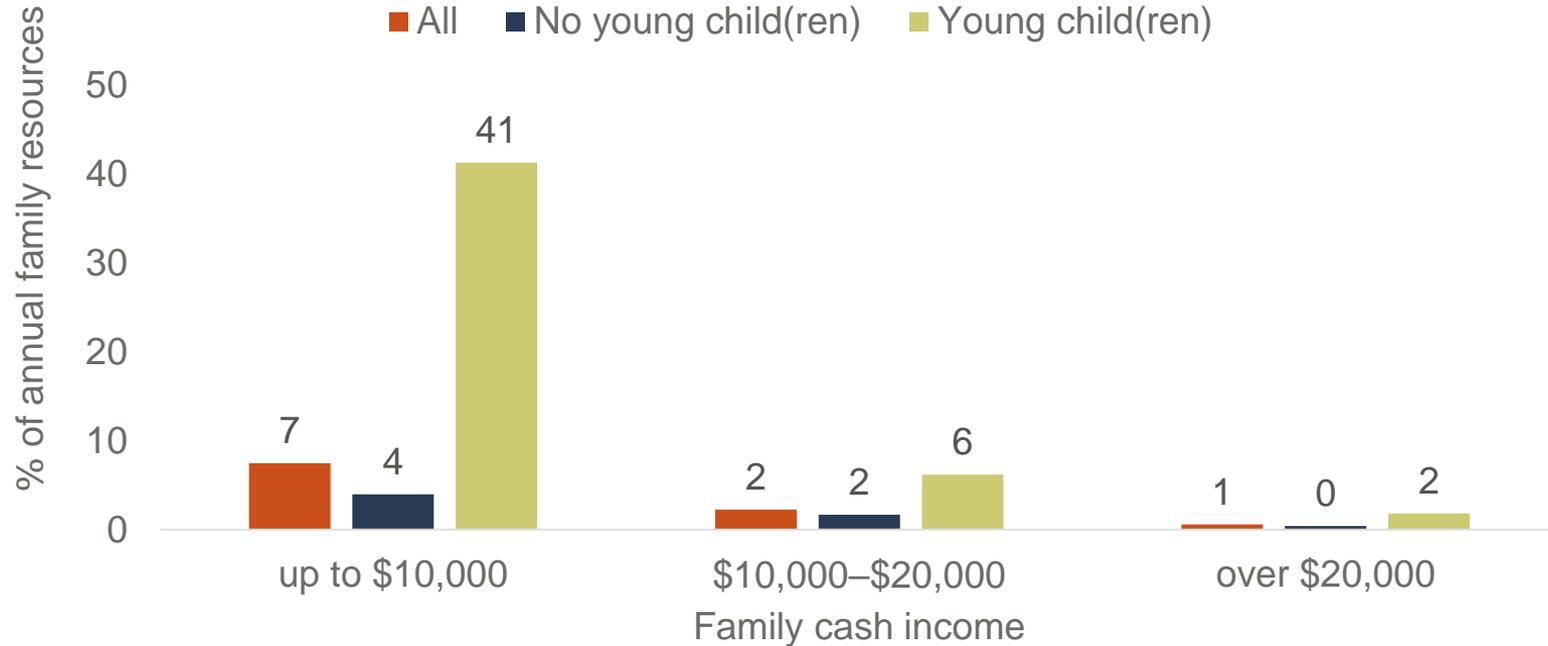

Source: California Poverty Measure.

Assistance is notably higher for Californians with less education

Source: California Poverty Measure.

Families with the lowest incomes see a sizable boost

Source: California Poverty Measure.

To increase take-up, must overcome different types of barriers

	Mindset	Learning	Action
Non-filers	Trust that credits are real, no adverse consequences of filing	Understand filing is necessary and advantageous	File forms
Filers		Understand they did not claim the credit(s)	Amend return

Strategies

- Improve knowledge about who is and is not filing
 - Identify characteristics those who always, sometimes, and never file
 - Understand characteristics of those more likely to miss the credit, even though they file
 - Link tax records to other state or county sources to improve knowledge about non-filers
- Build additional partnerships with trusted messengers
 - For families with children, this could include WIC and public schools
 - Consider how to engage with paid preparers
- Take steps towards opt-out instead of opt-in

Notes on the use of these slides

These slides were created to accompany a presentation. They do not include full documentation of sources, data samples, methods, and interpretations. To avoid misinterpretations, please contact:

Caroline Danielson (danielson@ppic.org; 415-291-4462)

Thank you for your interest in this work.