

Legislative Analyst's Office
California's Nonpartisan Fiscal and Policy Advisor

Jason Sisney

Jason Sisney is the director of state finance at the Legislative Analyst's Office (LAO). In that role, Jason coordinates the LAO's economic and budgetary forecasts, as well as the office's work on tax and retirement policy issues. Previously, he worked at Fitch Ratings in New York as a bond rating analyst for debt issued by states, water utilities, tribes, and universities. He also has served in positions in the West Virginia Governor's Office and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Jason has an undergraduate degree in government and foreign affairs from the University of Virginia and a master's degree in public administration from the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University.
